

2–3/2018

Table of Contents

- 5 Editorial
- 7 Aesthetics and ecology in the post-modern perspective
Anna Zeidler-Janiszewska
- 15 “Green” and “grey” ecologies as a notional context of contemporary artistic practices
Anna Zeidler-Janiszewska
- 21 Some remarks on plant art
Anna Zeidler-Janiszewska
- 27 Wildlife in urban parks—why sustain it?
Maciej Luniak
- 35 From blight to beauty: the controversial creation of the first U.S. industrial-heritage park
Tanya Whitehouse
- 57 Garden—non-garden. Contemporary trends in transformation of greenery as an instrument in the contest for the city
Beata J. Gawryszewska
- 83 Garden policies of the Warsaw housing cooperative: the garden and the right to the city
Magdalena Matysek-Imielińska

- 99 Schreber's gardens and Jordan's gardens as elements of created nature: the example of Katowice
Ryszard Nakonieczny
- 117 Informed aesthetic consensus and the creation of urban environments
Johannes Müller-Salo
- 133 Christopher Tilley, Kate Cameron-Daum, An Anthropology of Landscape: The Extraordinary in the Ordinary, UCL Press, London 2017. Book review
Monika Stobiecka