

Anna Szczepaniak-Kozak is

Associate Professor (Ph.D., D.Litt.) at the School of Languages and Literatures at Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań, Poland (AMU). Anna's main research interests are within the field of applied linguistics, particularly interlanguage (acquisitional) pragmatics, foreign language instruction and teaching-oriented studies of hate speech. She is the author of three books, the co-editor of six monographs, and the author of more than 50 scientific papers. In years 2014–2016, she conducted research and training activities in a project financed by the European Commission titled RADAR (Regulating Anti-Discrimination and Anti-Racism). RADAR team conducted research pertaining to racism- and xenophobia-motivated hate speech. She has also assisted as an e-learning platform moderator and materials contributor in two other European Commission projects devoted to the development learning materials helping migrants and host nationals in contact with migrants to improve their intercultural communication skills. In 2019, she received the AMU Rector's award for outstanding academic achievements.

Full report on her academic output at ORCID or:

<http://ils.amu.edu.pl/index.php/en/component/content/article/10-en/233-kozak-ang.html>