

Members of the Scientific Committee of “Poznańskie Studia Sławistyczne”

Magdalena Baer is a doctor of humanities in the field of Slavic linguistics and Croatian research. Her scientific interests include: history of the Croatian language, grammar of the modern Croatian language, especially collocations. She is directing her scientific research as a part of the authorial project “Humanities in nature – nature in humanities”, regarding the presence of natural aspects in humanities (using Polish-Croatian comparative approach).

For the selected bibliography, see: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-2423-2087>.